NEW GROWTH DESIGNS TO OPEN
FREESTANDING HIGH POINT SHOWROOM

GREENVILLE, NC - North Carolina based artificial flower manufacturer New Growth Designs is moving to a freestanding, 7000+ square-foot showroom for the upcoming High Point 2017 Spring Market. The showroom, at 422 N. Hamilton, is on the corner of Monroe Place and N. Hamilton Street, Stop 20 on the Red Line bus.

This new building, a much larger showroom, will allow the company to display a full selection of New Growth Designs® Outdoor, a line of UV-resistant boxwood balls, topiaries, and hedges for outdoor use, with designs inspired by classic English and French gardens. The move also provides space to display Fiberglass and frost-proof Terracotta planters, and a broader selection of Flower and Orchid stems. New Growth Designs is known for the most realistic Orchid plants, Trees, and Flower arrangements, featured in some of the world's finest luxury stores, museum stores, and hotels, and sought after by today's best-known designers.

Ed Glenn first exhibited in High Point 25 years ago with a small handful of prototype flowers. The products caught on - within a few days he came back with his first orders and the start of a new company. New Growth Designs continued to grow, moving in 2002 to a showroom in the Hamilton Wrenn Design District. They have partnered with CR Laine and Century Outdoor at recent markets.

In early March, they also launched a completely overhauled mobile-friendly website.

Newgrowthdesigns.com now offers easy and exclusive access and ordering to the Trade.

New Growth Designs also has a permanent showroom in Atlanta, Building 1, 14-E-20 and shows at the Architectural Digest Design Show, and the NY Now show. The company is family-owned and headquartered in Greenville, NC.
