French Accents Introduces New Rug Collection and Designs at High Point

New York City, January 17, 2019 — French Accents will be introducing its new Deconstruction collection during the Spring High Point Market. The new collection is hand-knotted and fully customizable. A wide range of color choices will be offered.

New Retro Lattice designs will also be highlighted during the Spring Market. These new designs are also fully customizable.

French Accents will also showcase designs that highlight Pantone's color of the year Living Coral.

The Deconstruction collection and Retro Lattice designs will be featured along with French Accents' existing iconic collections such the Oushak, Khotans, Nepalese, and many more. All available in French Accents' new showroom space in suite 112, 200 Steele ST. High Point, North Carolina 27260.

Deconstruction Collection

Influenced by color-field movements from the 1950's, French Accents' Deconstruction Collection perfectly complements mid-century aesthetics. Variety of color ways will be offered during the market.

Retro Lattice Designs

Based on 17th-century Lattice designs, French Accents has restructured the classic motifs and modernized those using unique weaving techniques. The classic designs have been transformed for contemporary lifestyles.

Pantone Color of the Year

French Accents will showcase designs from its wide range of collections that highlight the theme of this year's Pantone color of the year Living Coral.

Custom Capabilities

Every rug exhibited by French Accents during the Spring High Point market is fully customizable. French Accents can fully customize existing designs to accommodate any projects, ranging from color palette changes to an unorthodox rug size.
