

CREATIVE TOUCH RUGS

X ARTXTILES

Secaucus, New Jersey

Sczepanski's original, mono-type artwork is transformed into a Nepalese weave masterpiece by implementing varying pile heights and seamlessly blending wool and silk together. Each piece is masterfully woven and finished in India.

Together, they select pieces from Sczepanski's ever-growing library of mono-type artwork. Ildiz carefully guides the color selection, material content, and texture placement while maintaining the original integrity of Sczepanski's vision.

The three piece collection will debut to the design industry at the Fall 2020 High Point Market. During and following market, Creative Touch will be accepting orders for standard sizes and custom options will also be available.

FROM PRINT TO WEAVE

Sczepanski derives her inspiration from subjects in nature that typically are overlooked, despite their intricate detail and vast complexity. In her art she aims to convey her appreciation for nature's effort when it creates its little wonders.

Sczepanski's creative process often originates with color.

She finds herself drawn to blues and greens; this can be attributed to her passion for nature's wonders.

The process to translate art into textile is a collaborative effort between Sczepanski and Baki Ildiz, Founder and President of Creative Touch.
