Self-taught designer/maker.

Husband and Father.

Created creator.

Short Story: A Freelance Graphic Designer married a woman from Bali. They began importing furniture from Indonesia into a small showroom in his hometown of Durham, NC. People would ask, "Did you make these pieces?" He got tired of saying, "No."

He bought some tools and turned to YouTube for instruction. He broke down their imported inventory and began applying classic joinery techniques to the designs he wanted to bring to life.

To differentiate himself from other furniture makers (past and present - big and small) he formulated an ethos, a challenge really, that would inform his work:

No Nails, No Screws, No Stains.

His work is authentic, his efforts honest, and his resources simple: Time, being the most important.

As for time, Jeremy has committed to invest it into family and work. Jeremy and his family moved to High Point, NC in 2019 where he works from his garage.

Oil & Wax Finishing: I finish my work with the plant-based oil "Rubio Monocoat": a durable, non-pigmented, non-toxic, sustainable, 0% VOC wipe-on finish containing no solvents.

The last step is a coat of "Renaissance Wax": an acid-free wax developed by the British Museum and used by the Smithsonian and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

A simple approach is easy to maintain.
