Hickory White Presents Rounded Curves, Intriguing Stones, and Interesting Wood Grain Patterns at Fall High Point Market

HIGH POINT, N.C. – Hickory White, a respectable name in the furniture industry, is set to make a resounding statement at the upcoming October 2023 High Point Furniture Market. With a legacy spanning 140 years, Hickory White is proud to introduce pieces full of curves, intriguing materials, and wood grain patterns.

Hickory White introductions include pieces that embody the beauty of organic shapes and the elegance they bring to interiors. This curve trend is a celebration of soft, flowing lines that infuse an element of grace and movement into furniture pieces. From new and interesting sofas such as the 6603-05 Stetson Sofa that embrace the body's natural curves to exquisitely contoured tables like the 613-23 Silverton End Table, these introductions capture the essence of a design language that is both timeless and contemporary.

Incorporating interesting wood grain patterns and intriguing stones such as Travertine, Hickory White is paying homage to nature's artistry this season. By highlighting the intricate and captivating patterns found in nature, pieces like the 723-50 Benson Desk and the 613-11 Everett Cocktail Table are not just functional but also visual statements. Each piece is meticulously crafted to emphasize the unique character of the stone and wood grain, creating a sense of wonder and sophistication in any space.

Patrick Foster, vice president of sales at Hickory White, expressed, "Our legacy is rooted in craftsmanship and innovation, and our latest introductions mirror that ethos. We invite furniture enthusiasts to experience our new designs that evoke emotion and tell a story."
