Chelsea on Green

I have been a devoted fan of High Point Market for three decades. It is central to my design practice, and it has allowed me to build lifelong friendships and business relationships that have endured. I love the chance to network and attend social events with design colleagues, members of the press, and the creatives that fuel our industry. I was a Style Spotter in 2013/2014 and later had the privilege of serving as a co-advisor with Shay Geyer for five years. This is my seventh year in the program, and I still feel honored to be included as a member of this very prestigious and incredibly talented group.

BOUTIQUE CHIC – STORYTELLING

As a design storyteller, I love creating boutique hotels and unique resorts. My process is always highly narrative and High Point Market offers the most extraordinary palette of options for a seasoned storyteller. From artisan makers and antiquaries that offer exceptional craftsmanship, authentic materials, and objects that bring rich character and gravitas to any interior space they adorn, to innovative manufacturers offering readily available solutions for large scale projects. I love the juxtaposition of the rare and elusive with tasteful designs that pay homage to the most creative periods in design. From classicism to high modernism, art deco to mid-century and representations of global aesthetics, the palette is truly infinite.

CUSTOMIZATION

As a hospitality designer, I frequently need to customize details to fit the story and vibe of the hotel, club, or resort I am currently working on. I have found great partnerships at High Point Market that bring their expertise to a fruitful dialogue resulting in designs that are truly bespoke. My clients love the results and appreciate the personal relationships I have been able to cultivate with manufacturers over my long history with High Point Market.

BEAUTY MEETS PERFORMANCE

Luxury is not luxury if it does not perform, and my clients count on me to make their spaces beautiful but also to protect their investments by selecting products that will create great guest experiences for several years. Working with manufacturers that understand the importance of durability and the necessity of meeting life safety codes makes my role as a designer much easier. We all need partners we can count on, and I have found those in abundance at High Point Market.
